I pray for the success of President elect Biden and our country...just as I did 4 years ago for Trump. We are all in this together, I just wish we would act like it.

We're not in this together and it's probably better we get to realizing that. Half the nation hates America, hates our Constitution, hates the freedom of speech and the right to keep and bear arms, and wants to implement Marxist identity fascism on top of the corpse of the United States with their ideological friends from China who fund them in conquering our nation from within.

Rick Rynearson that's a helpful attitude...and saying half of the population hates America (because they may have different opinions) is just condescending and wrong. I try and post something positive to move forward, and hate like this drags us back. You are part of the problem, and only blame others.

And no, i am not getting into a 14 page diatribe with you. I have an actual job, and dont have time for your nonsense.

When those differing opinions include differing on our rights, our system of government, and whether or not to use violence to inflict their nutter worldview on me and others.... Right here from the get go I'm a "problem" for voicing an opinion you don't agree with. Me expressing "hate" rather than placid acceptance of the destruction of the nation is an issue for you.

You won't get into a 14 page back and forth with me because you'll lose the argument as you always do. But now that you've got your like minded twins in positions of power, you're closer to having the kind of "conversation" you prefer to have with those you disagree with. The "shut up or else" conversation backed by force.

No Rick, the problem is you think this is about winning a debate. And have no tolerance for any view but your own. We all need to be better than that...

You have no tolerance for being shown you're wrong, yes, that's correct. Your goal here, comrade, is to get people to accept a major blow to our nation as somehow okay and to pacify us in the further destruction of our nation. You can't deliver that message effectively by engaging in actual discussion of why people are angry and concerned.
